CONFERENCE BRIEF

Terrorism, gun crime and gang membership have taken root within our communities but how have we responded? This conference, supported by the three times national award winning Defending Da Hood will demonstrate to delegates the impact of gang activity, gun crime and terrorism on our communities.

Hard hitting and challenging, this conference will provide a rare opportunity for delegates to hear from speakers with front-line experiences of these issues including the Police and service providers as well as parents and children whose lives have been affected.

Speakers will include:

- James Brokenshire – MP (Shadow Home Affairs Minister) All Party Parliamentary Group for Child and Youth Crime
- Superintendent Stephen Tyler – Trident
- Bob Lambert – Muslim Contact Unit – Counter Terrorism Command – Metropolitan Police
- Hanif Qadir – Active Change Foundation – Muslim Young People's Project
- Lhamea & Linda Lawrence - Youth Chair & Founder of Kids Count
- Richard Taylor – Damilola Taylor Trust
- Paula Liverpool – Parents Against Violence

This conference will explore the issues and impact of guns, gangs and terror on local communities and explore the models of good practice and partnership working that has been used in an effort to counteract this activity. Focussing on solutions for RSLs, local authorities and businesses this conference will explore crime resolution strategies for the issues facing communities today

The conference auditorium setting has seating capacity for 150 people. Please confirm your attendance as soon possible using the booking form attached.

Refreshments will be provided.
